OKR REVIEW · Q2 2026

Tideline

We hit two of three objectives — and the miss tells us exactly where to focus Q3.

We cleared growth and trust this quarter; supplier liquidity is where we fell short.

Tideline set three objectives for Q2: grow the buyer base, deepen marketplace trust, and improve supplier liquidity. We hit the first two decisively. Supplier liquidity landed at 0.6 — a real miss with a clear cause.

- Growth and trust both finished above 0.8 — strong quarters.
- Supplier liquidity is the focus that carries into Q3.

Two objectives landed green; supplier liquidity finished below the bar.

TARGET 0.8 MISSED SUPPLY

OBJECTIVE 1 · GROW THE BUYER BASE

Buyer-growth key results all landed at or above target.

OBJECTIVE 2 · DEEPEN MARKETPLACE TRUST

Trust key results cleared the bar, with dispute rate the standout.

OBJECTIVE 3 · IMPROVE SUPPLIER LIQUIDITY

Supplier liquidity missed — fill rate is the key result that dragged.

THE ROOT OF THE LIQUIDITY MISS

71%

order fill rate against a 90% target — too few suppliers covering high-demand categories.

The liquidity gap is a category-coverage problem, not a demand problem.

Demand was strong everywhere; supply wasn't. Fill rates were healthy in mature categories but collapsed in three fast-growing ones where we hadn't recruited enough suppliers to meet the orders coming in.

- 3 categories drove 80% of the unfilled orders this quarter.
- Buyer demand in those categories grew 3× faster than supplier signups.

Q3 2026 · LIQUIDITY PLAN

How we close the liquidity gap, by workstream.

WORKSTREAM	NOW (Q2)	BUILD (Q3)	SCALE (Q4)
Supplier growth	✓ 4,200 verified	– Focus-category drive	○ Referral engine
Matching	✓ Basic search	– Demand-aware routing	○ Predictive restock
Incentives	○ Flat fees	– Category bonuses	○ Dynamic pricing

✓ Shipped – In flight ○ Planned

We're making supplier liquidity the single company-level objective for Q3.

FOCUS Q3 ON LIQUIDITY

One headline objective: lift fill rate to 90% in the three underserved categories.

SPREAD ACROSS ALL THREE AGAIN

Risks repeating the Q2 miss by under-resourcing the one metric that's behind.
