Classic · the default

Deck presets

One word in the front matter sets the backdrop, the alignment, the bar, the rules and the cards together. This is Classic, the house default: centered, no backdrop.

Preset · what it sets

One word sets up to eleven settings

`preset:` picks a named look. Each setting it covers still works on its own, and a key you write wins over the preset.

- What a preset sets
  - The backdrop, heading alignment, brand bar and its edge, card rails, trim, heading rule, eyebrow, card lift and corners.
- What it never touches
  - The theme, color mode, header, footer, logo and language.

Editorial · preset: editorial

A ruled page, set flush left

The ledger backdrop draws a rail down the left edge and faint rules behind the content. Headings align left.

Brand-forward · preset: brand

The accent, everywhere

Centered, with corner marks over a faint grid. Set the theme accent to a client's color and the whole deck follows it.

Minimal · preset: minimal

Nothing but the content

Flush left, no backdrop, no bar and no heading rule. Rounded slide corners on screen.

Editorial · a content slide

Line 3 runs at 94% before the peak even starts

Every other line has at least 15% headroom. Line 3 has six, and the Q4 forecast adds eleven.

- Overtime covers the first four weeks
  - After that the line is the constraint, not labor.

Brand-forward · a card slide

Three ways to buy back the headroom

Pre-build

Run Line 3 on weekends and stock ahead.

Re-route

Move two SKUs to Line 1.

Extend

Add a second shift for six weeks.

Preset · overrides

A key you write wins over the preset

---
theme: indaco
preset: editorial
rule: none      # everything from Editorial except the heading rule
---

The Studio shows each preset as a picture of one sample slide, counts your overrides as changes, and offers a Reset.

Studio · basic and advanced

Basic first, Advanced one tap away

- Basic
  - Theme, preset, color mode, size, page numbers and logo in one short list. A slide shows canvas, type scale, clean slide and its note.
- Advanced
  - Every setting, grouped or listed. The "More…" drawers are gone; their rows sit under plain headings.
- Search
  - Always spans every setting, whichever view is open.

Deck presets

Pick a look, then change only what you need

Start from a preset, and every setting you change afterwards overrides it. Reset takes the deck back to the preset.
