Panes · photo fit

A photo in a pane fits its box

A picture beside text is scaled to fit its pane and centered, at any share and any shape.

Nothing is cropped, and no slide is stamped "Content clipped".

A wide photo takes most of a wide pane.

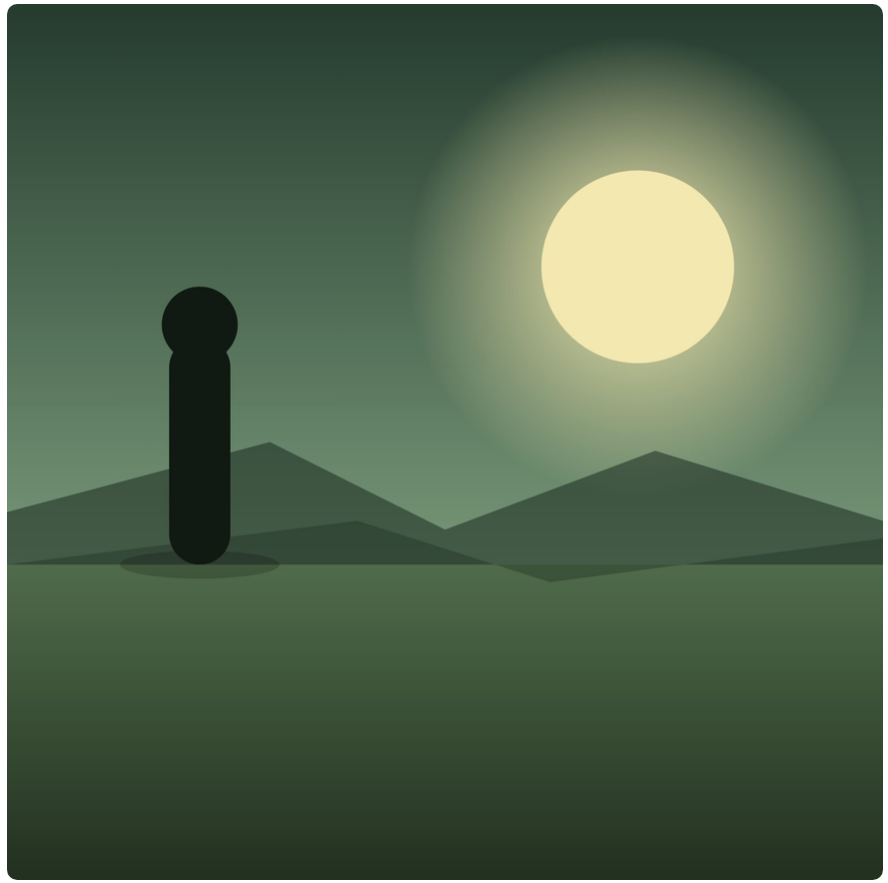

- Fitted to the pane's box
- Centered in it

A tall photo stops at the pane's height.

- It was cropped here, the sun cut off
- Now the whole picture shows

A square photo fits an even split.

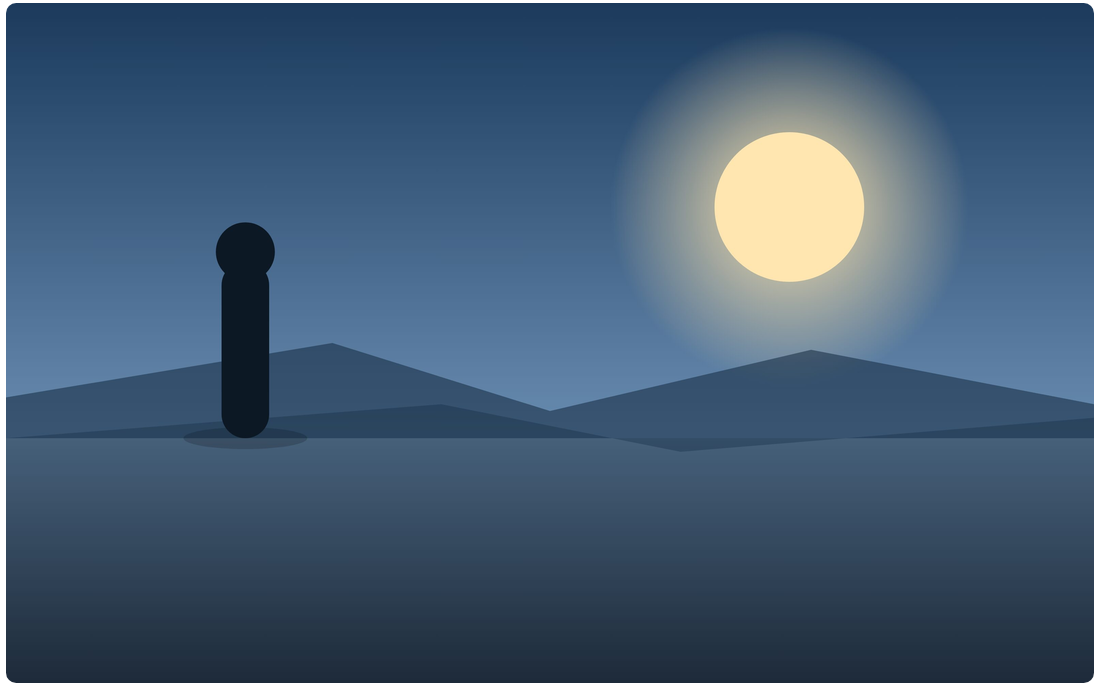

- Before: the lower third ran past the pane
- After: the square sits whole

A narrow pane takes a small, whole picture.

- A panorama at 25% is a strip
- It is never scaled past its own pixels

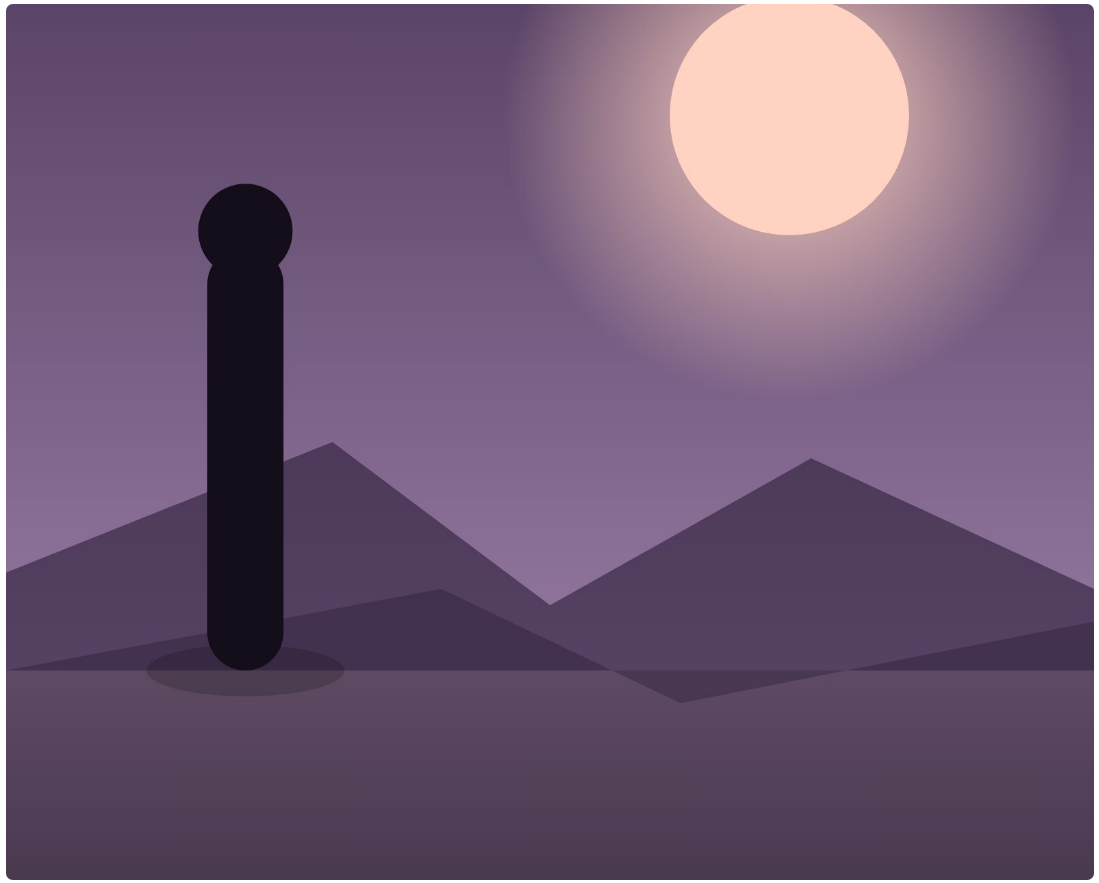

A caption under the photo keeps its place.

A caption line under the photo.

- The picture takes the height the caption leaves

An image pane still fills its box and crops.

WHAT CHANGES

Nothing here: the cover crop is deliberate