Auto-split · pricing

A price list you can read on a phone

Three tiers side by side need a wide page. On a tall one they used to lose two of the three. Now the comparison pages instead.

What this deck shows

A cover leads in, then each tier gets a page of its own, keeping the component's own card — the featured flag, the accent border, the tinted fill.

Every page carries `Option N of M · comparing …`, derived from the tiers rather than authored. The `two` and `four` variants follow the same rule, and a wide page still renders every tier at once.

The three renewal structures, as a customer sees them.

The renewal structures →

The three renewal structures, as a customer sees them.

Per record

$0.14 / record

- Volume discounts
- ~~Named reviewer~~

For pilots and low-volume sites.

Option 1 of 3 · comparing Volume discounts · Named reviewer

The three renewal structures, as a customer sees them. (cont.)

MOST CHOSEN

Flat platform

$240K / yr

- Volume discounts
- Named reviewer

For steady, forecastable programs.

Option 2 of 3 · comparing Volume discounts · Named reviewer

The three renewal structures, as a customer sees them. (cont.)

Outcome-linked

Custom

- Volume discounts
- Named reviewer

For systems that will share the measured savings.

Option 3 of 3 · comparing Volume discounts · Named reviewer

Two tiers read as a choice, not a ladder.

The renewal structures →

Two tiers read as a choice, not a ladder.

Standard

$96K / yr

- Quarterly review
- ~~Named reviewer~~

For one site with steady volume.

Option 1 of 2 · comparing Quarterly review · Named reviewer

Two tiers read as a choice, not a ladder. (cont.)

MOST CHOSEN

Managed

$240K / yr

- Quarterly review
- Named reviewer

For a group that wants the review run for them.

Option 2 of 2 · comparing Quarterly review · Named reviewer

Four is the widest row that still holds.

The renewal structures →

Four is the widest row that still holds.

Pilot

$0

- ~~Quarterly review~~
- ~~Named reviewer~~

Ninety days, no commitment.

Option 1 of 4 · comparing Quarterly review · Named reviewer

Four is the widest row that still holds. (cont.)

Standard

$96K / yr

- Quarterly review
- ~~Named reviewer~~

One site, steady volume.

Option 2 of 4 · comparing Quarterly review · Named reviewer

Four is the widest row that still holds. (cont.)

MOST CHOSEN

Group

$240K / yr

- Quarterly review
- Named reviewer

Up to eight sites on one contract.

Option 3 of 4 · comparing Quarterly review · Named reviewer

Four is the widest row that still holds. (cont.)

Outcome-linked

Custom

- Quarterly review
- Named reviewer

For systems sharing the measured savings.

Option 4 of 4 · comparing Quarterly review · Named reviewer

Why a comparison is allowed to page

Tiers on separate pages do read weaker than tiers side by side. That cost is real, and it is smaller than the one it replaces: unsplit at this size the slide showed one tier of three, cut mid-word, on a two-thirds empty page.

A comparison you page through beats a comparison two thirds of which is off the page — and the forward signal is what holds the run together.

The rule, in one line

`pricing` is a comparison, and comparisons page.

Auto-split — pricing, one tier per page