piechart · radar · map · cohort quadrant · 2026-06-13

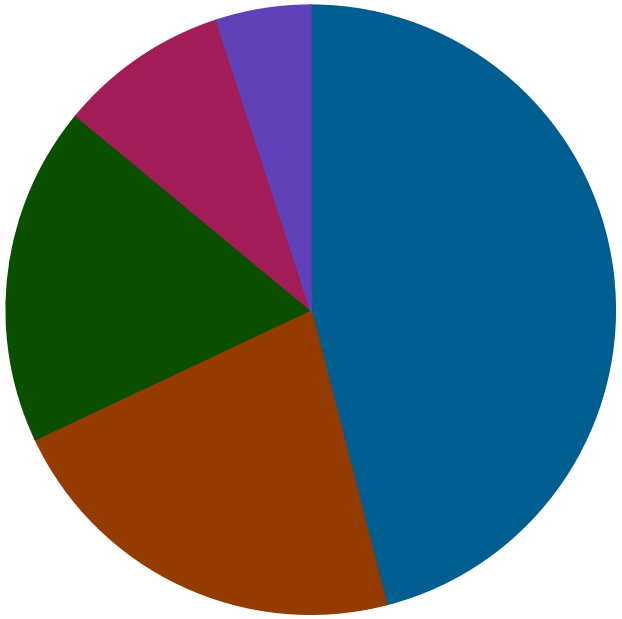

Four charts, four keys — each one SVG.

The diagram, the gradient spine, and the legend now share a single viewBox on every keyed chart, so the whole thing scales as one proportional unit — and the four read as one family.

H1 2026 · 1,840 person-hours

Where the planning quarter actually went.

The key scales with the diagram; the spine floats in a comfortable gap.

The engineering quarter, as a donut.

Wedges, spine and key are all emitted in viewBox units.

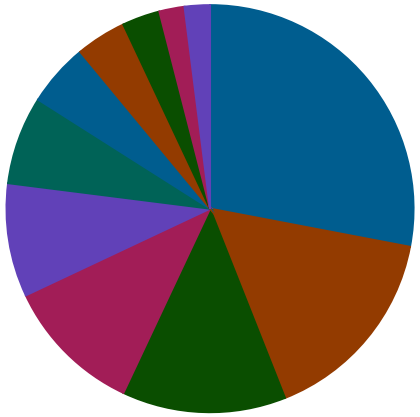

Donut — same unit, hollow center

FY2026 · the long tail

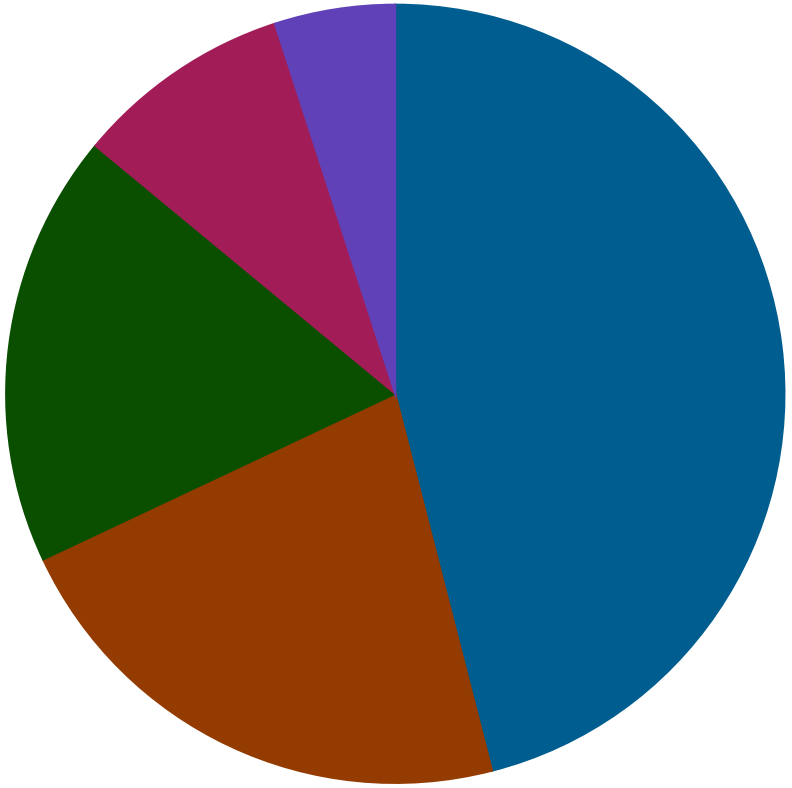

Eleven slices still fit — the legend scales itself down.

No clipping: the font shrinks just enough to seat every keyed row.

Signal Intake engineering	28%
Scoring policy work	16%
Decision Log integration	13%
Per-team calibration	11%
Explaining the framework to stakeholders	9%

H1 2026 · dark canvas

Spine, swatches, labels — all token-driven.

Every color flips with the canvas; nothing is a baked literal.

How we stack up across the buying criteria.

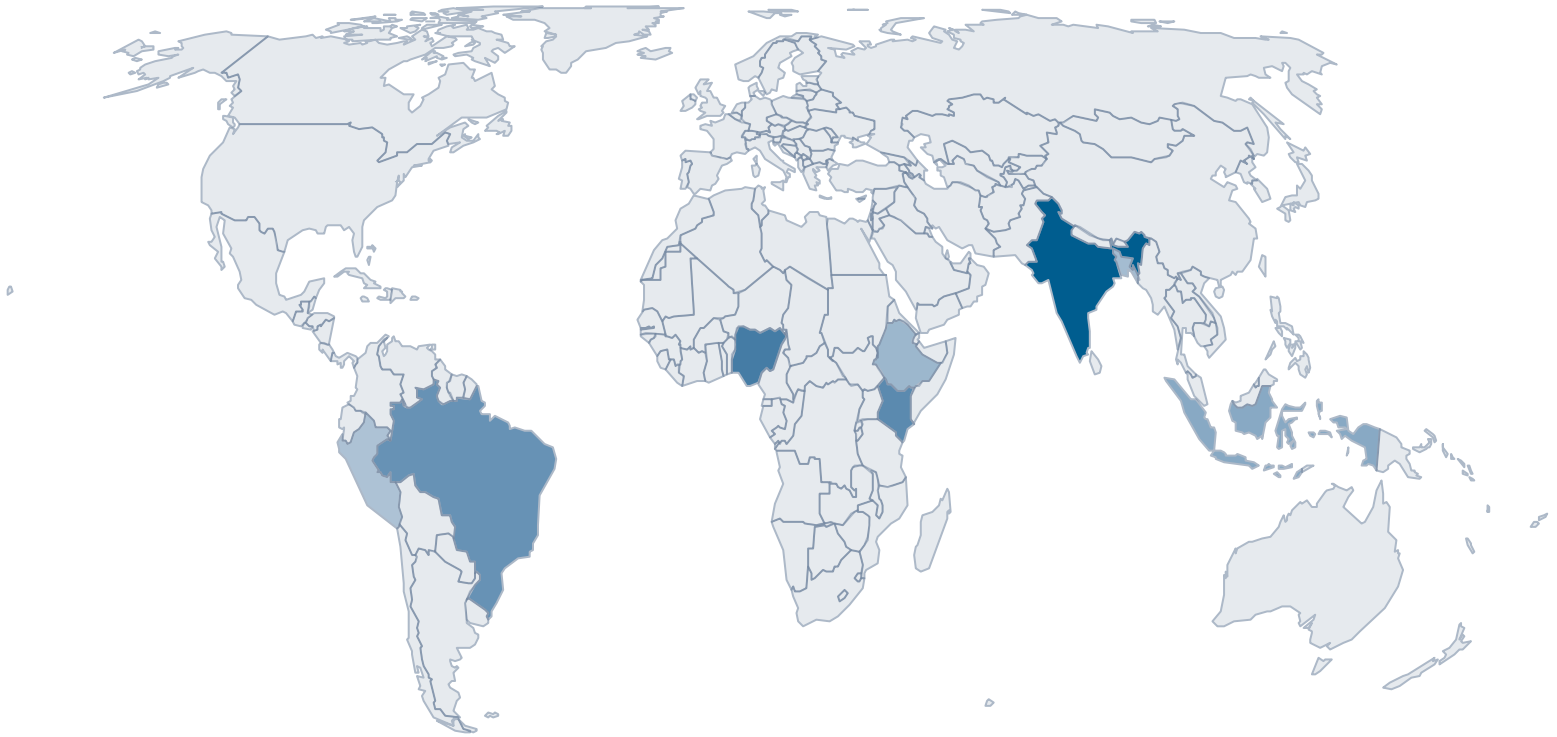

The key rides the same shared builder — swatch, label, spine — keyed off the series color instead of a wedge.

Radar — same key model, no value column (labels reclaim the width)

Where our programs reached — unevenly.

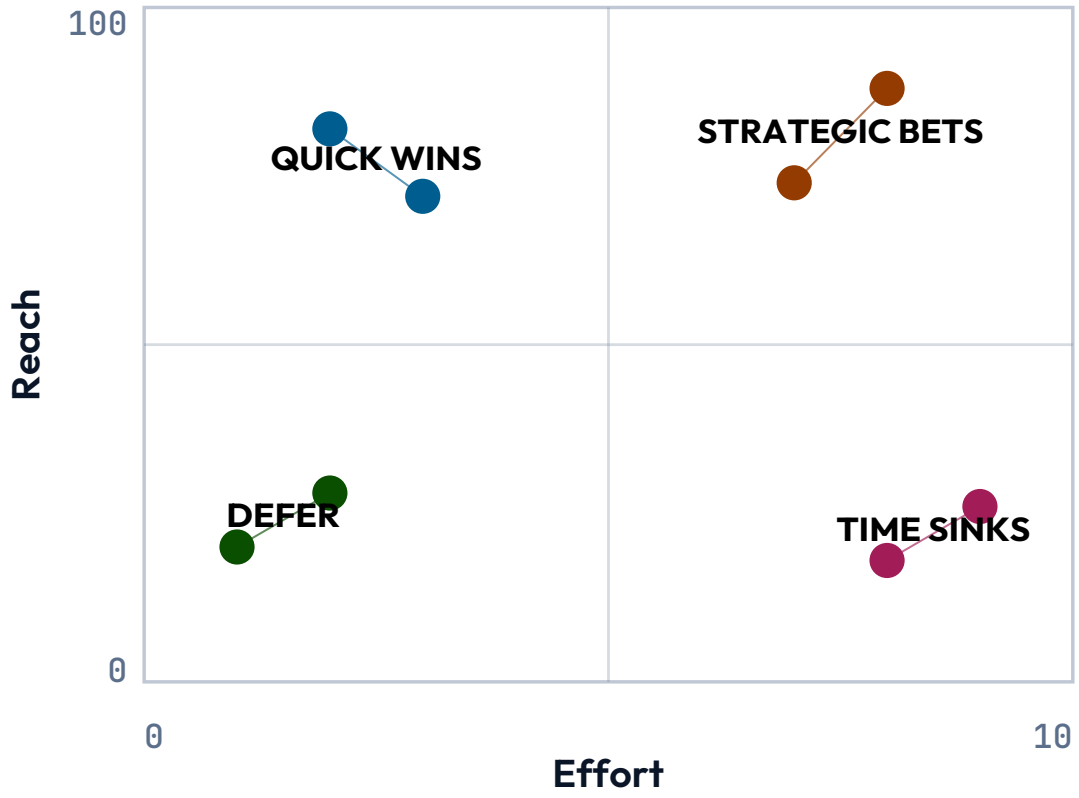

Each swatch is the region's own fill, so the key reads as a legend of the map itself.

India	48.2
Nigeria	36.4
Kenya	31.0
Brazil	27.5
Indonesia	19.3
Ethiopia	14.1
Bangladesh	11.8
Peru	9.6

Cohort quadrant — swatch + item count, one family with the rest

piechart · radar · map · cohort quadrant

One viewBox, and it travels.

Proportional at any size, self-contained for export, accessible (the key is re-stated in a `<desc>`), and still palette-blind and sketch-aware — one shared builder under all four keyed charts.
