Anchor · Split · Prose

topic

Topic anchor inside a section. A horizontal cut: the topic above, the section's topics as a scale below.

Payback

Fourteen months blended, against a nine-month plan.

Section 02 · Unit economics

Payback

Fourteen months blended, against a nine-month plan.

CAC ÷ monthly gross margin · 14 cohorts · FY26 actuals fact · topic fact — one flat canvas. The claim becomes the display line, the name a label on a rule, and a mono basis line states what the claim rests on.

Escalation paths

Three of the nine paths route to a team that no longer owns the service.

When NOT to reach for topic.

A section with one topic, or with ten

Below two the track is suppressed and the slide is a `divider light` with extra chrome — use `divider light`. Past nine the labels have ramped down twice and still run out of room; split it with another `divider`. For the deck's contents, use `agenda`.

A full sentence as the heading

The heading is also this topic's label in every sibling slide's track. A sentence reads as a headline here and overflows its column there. Short noun phrase; put the sentence in the claim.

When NOT to reach for topic.

More than one per two or three content slides

A topic anchor is a breath, not a separator. Firing it between every slide makes it chrome and costs it the authority that makes it work.

Carrying a fact that appears nowhere else

An anchor is deletable without losing information — the section proves the claim on the slides that follow. If the number lives ONLY on this slide, it is a `big-number`, not a `topic`.

Related components

See also.

`divider` — the boundary BETWEEN sections, rather than a topic inside one

`agenda` — the deck's sections, listed once, as a contents page

`big-number` — the metric IS the slide, not an anchor before the evidence