Lattice · Feature deck

What stays on a stage slide

The title names the deck, so the running header steps back. The confidential line stays.

Confidential · © 2026 Acme

Three parts, one rule

01 Which bands stay

02 Where the marker sits

03 How to override

Confidential · © 2026 Acme

Part one

Which bands stay

Confidential · © 2026 Acme

A band stays unless the slide already does its job

- The header says which deck this is, so only the title drops it
- The footer is the deck's standing note, so every anchor keeps it
- The page number gives way to the divider's marker and the topic's track
- The logo says whose deck it is, so it stays everywhere

Part two

Where the marker sits

Confidential · © 2026 Acme

The marker teaches where to look

- A divider draws its section marker where the rail will be
- By default that is the bottom-right corner, where the page number sits
- `progress-rail: center` moves both to the middle of the footer band
- `progress-rail: edge` stands the marks upright on the right edge

03

Part three

How to override

Confidential · © 2026 Acme

One slide at a time

Every band is a switch, so one anchor brings a band back with `with-header`, and drops one with `no-footer`.

Confidential · © 2026 Acme

The overrides are the switches you already have

- `divider no-footer` drops the note on one divider
- `title with-header` brings the header back on the cover
- `class: no-footer` in front matter drops it on every slide

Thank you

The footer above is the same on every slide in this deck.

Confidential · © 2026 Acme