The key matches its chart

On a dark canvas a legend swatch could paint a different color from the mark it labelled. The 82% wash had no token, so ten call sites retyped it and five drifted onto the canvas instead of the base. This deck is dark on purpose — it is the only canvas where the two ever differed.

One hue, three levels

A kernel takes a level; it does not build one.

fill

The restrained tint, for a wash behind text.

body

The vivid 82% solid most marks paint. This is the one that was missing.

The saturated mark, border and direct label.
