Evidence · Spatial · Series

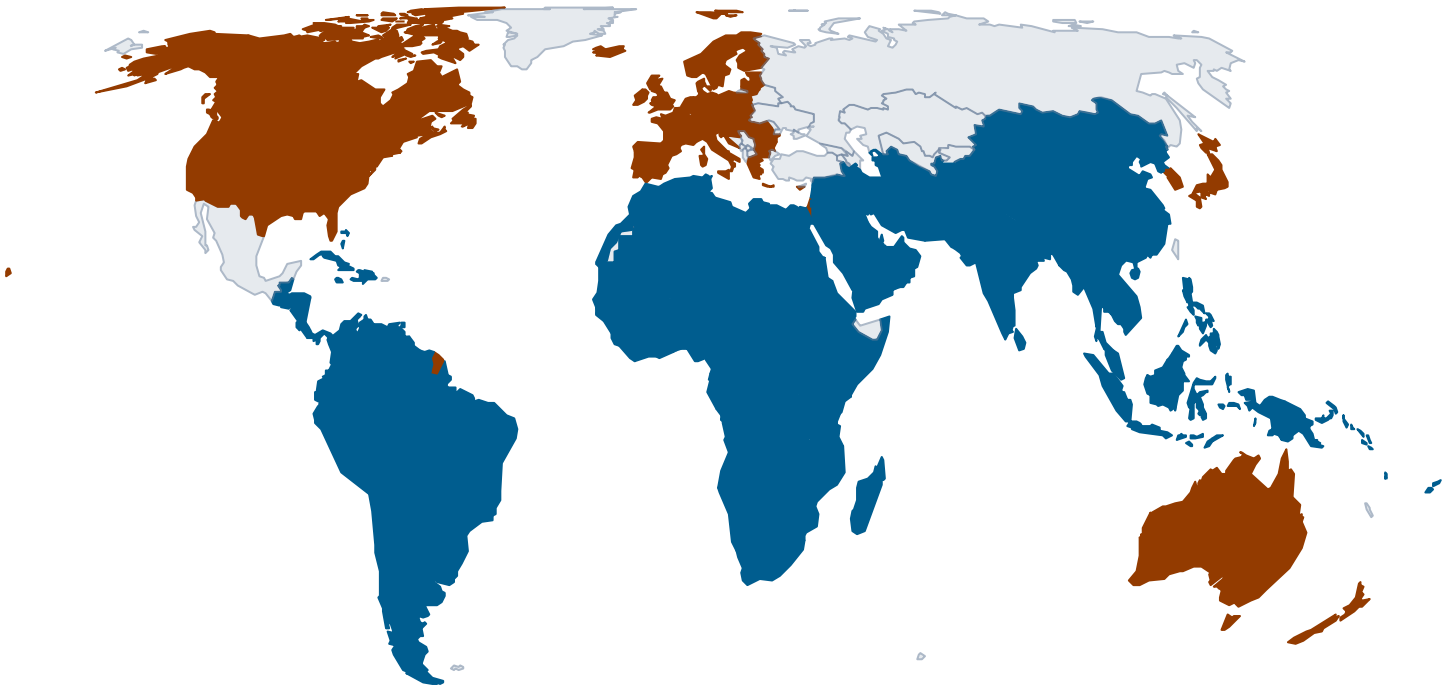

The Global South, first-class

A stated, dated definition that ships with the data — pinned to the UN Group of 77 + China, dated 2025.

Omission isn't neutral.

Leaving "Global South" out doesn't keep the engine impartial — it just makes every deck hand-roll an undocumented ~130-country roster, so the political call lands invisibly and inconsistently. Shipping one sourced, dated roster is the transparent choice: the definition travels with the data, and an author can cite it.

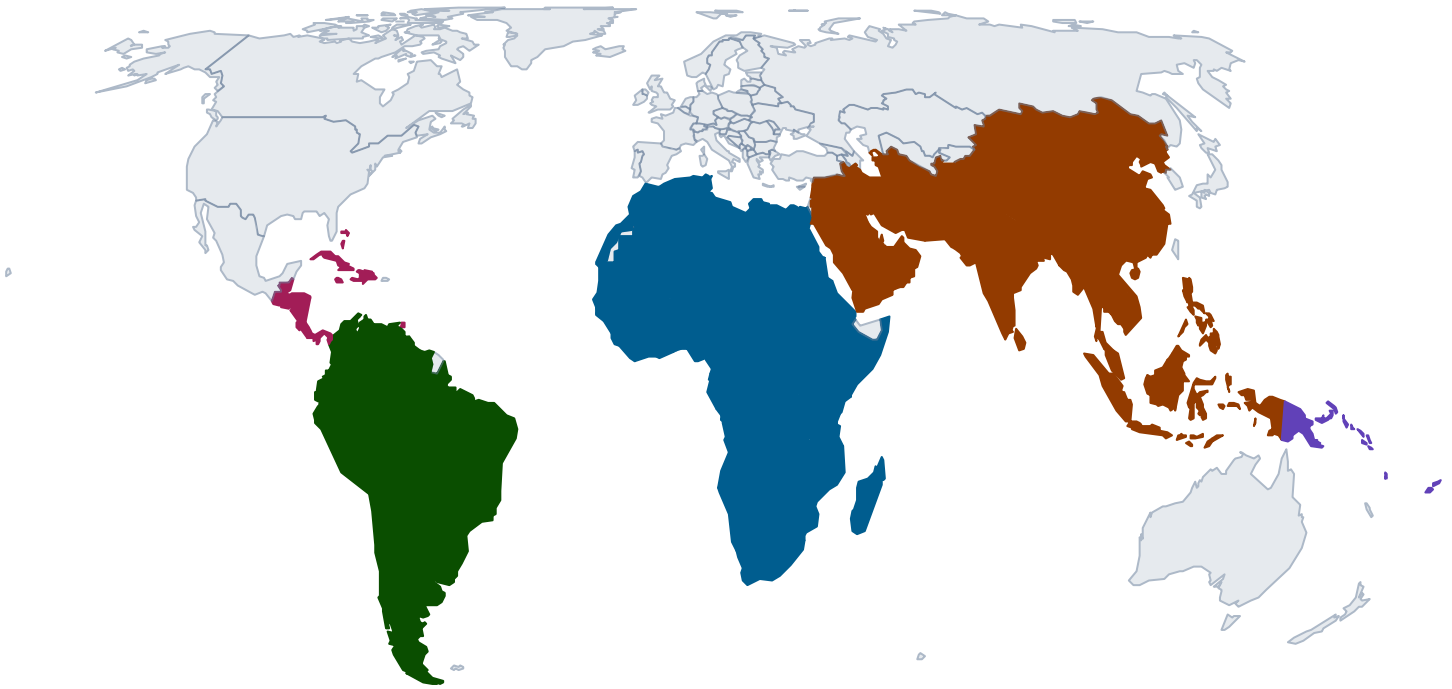

Two worlds, one stated definition.

Global South — G77 + China

Global North — Developed economies

The Global South, by region.

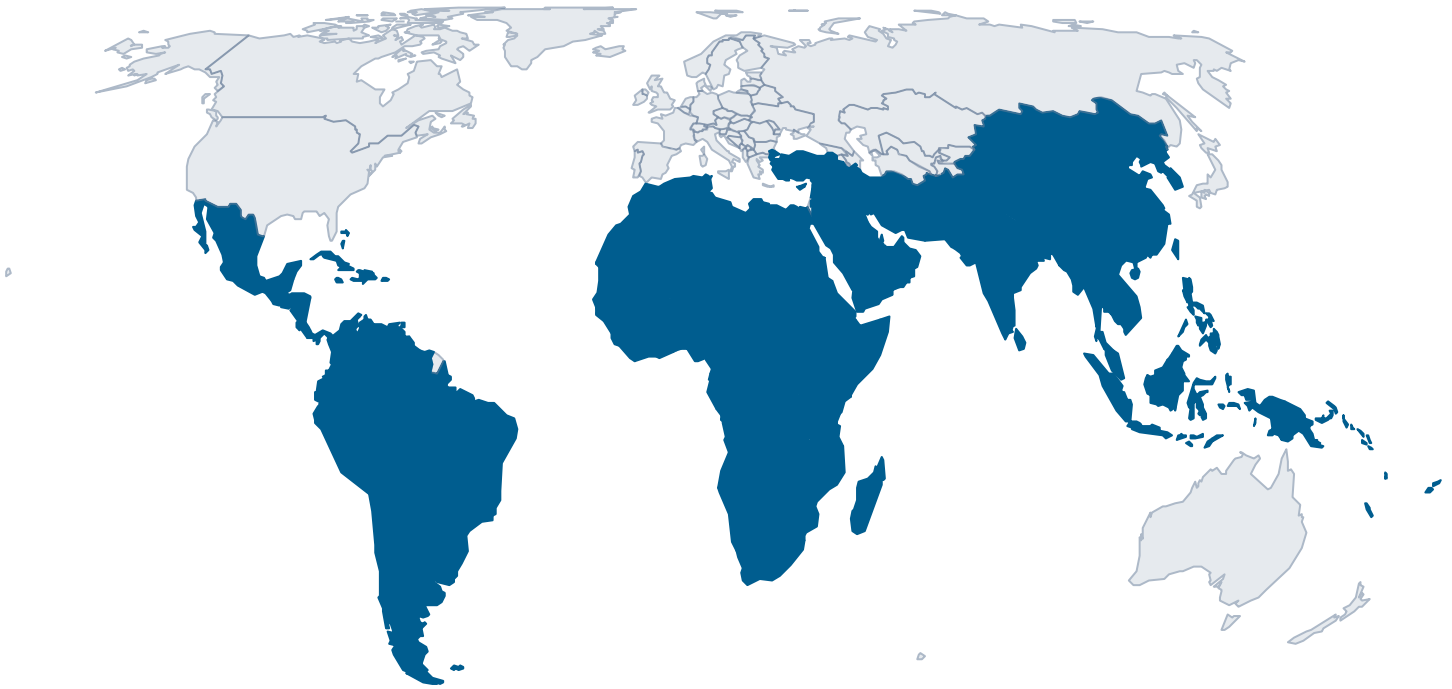

Global South by continent · G77 + China (2025)

Contested term, two sourced views — #1: G77 + China.

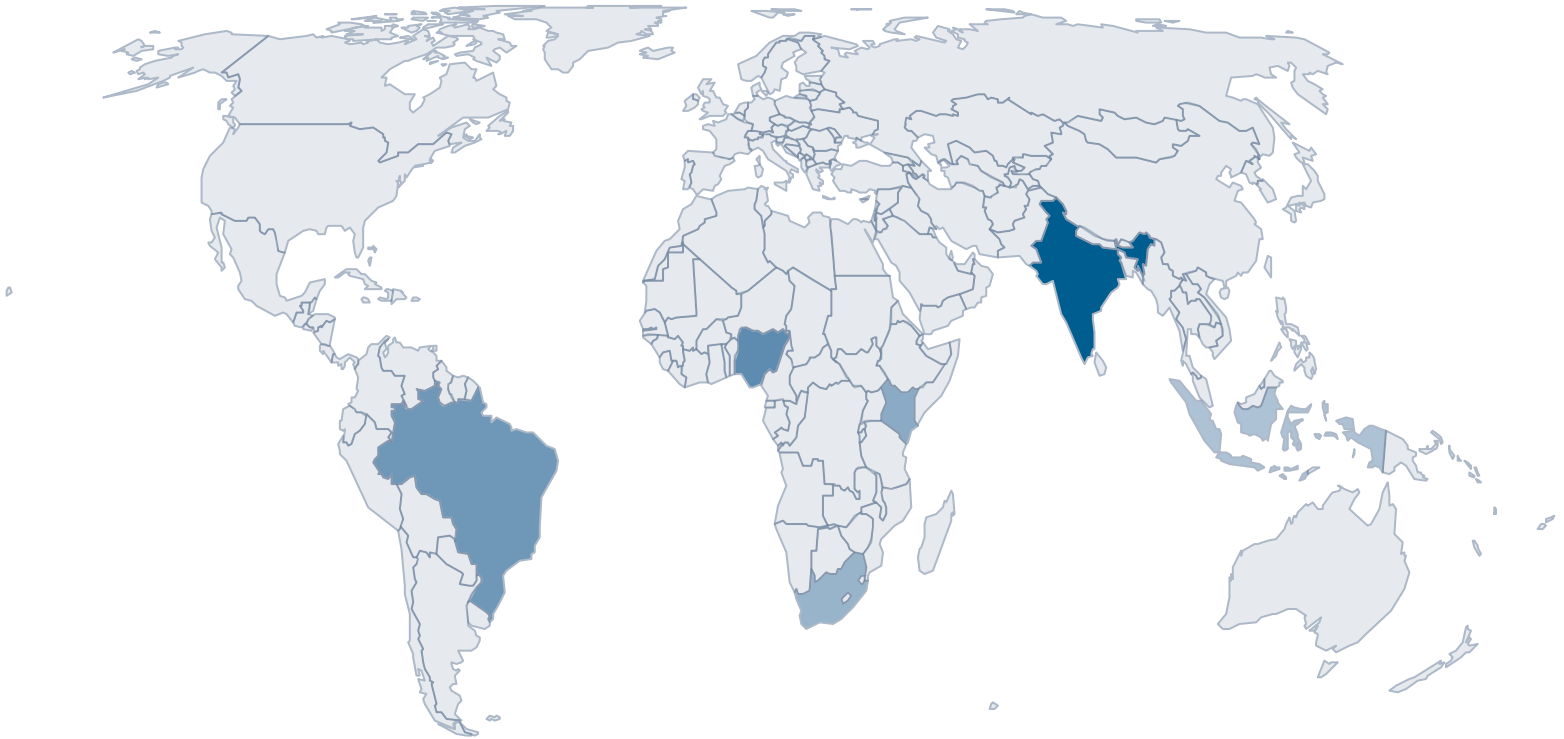

#2: the Brandt Line — Mexico, Turkey, the Koreas shift in.

Global South — Brandt Line

1980 North–South line

Or color the members directly.

India	12.1
Nigeria	9.2
Brazil	8.5
Kenya	7.4
South Africa	6.8
Indonesia	5.9

The default projection is Equal Earth — and that's the point.

Global South

Robinson, for comparison

The boundary stays provable.

Every group ships its `source` and `asOf`. States in neither list — Russia, the post-Soviet and Balkan economies, disputed territories — belong to no `global-*` group, rather than being forced into one.