New component · inventory · grid · prose

The wall that vouches for you.

A grid of customer, partner, or funder marks — the social-proof slide every go-to-market and mission-driven deck reaches for, now a first-class layout instead of a hand-placed image.

One layout, every industry's proof slide.

The credibility moment shows up everywhere — it just wears a different label. `logo-wall` desaturates the marks to one gray, so no loud brand outshouts a quiet one.

- Corporate calls it trusted by; nonprofits call it our funders; government calls it participating agencies.
- The `color` variant keeps brand hues for insignia and crests; `dense` packs a longer roster.
- Each mark can carry an optional name and pill below it when the logo alone doesn't say enough.

Proof, not paragraphs.

When the names carry on sight, let them. When they don't, count them with a `big-number` instead.
