Typography · venue: conference

Write for the room

Name where the deck will be seen. The engine sizes the type for the back row.

Four venues

Pick the room, not the font size.

VENUE	WHO IS WATCHING	BACK ROW	TYPE
`laptop`	You, reading on your own screen	3 screen-heights	1x
`huddle`	4–6 people around a TV	4.5	1.15x
`conference`	10–30 people	5–7	1.3x
`hall`	50–2,000 people	7–10	1.5x

What decides legibility

12′

Comfortable x-height for a mixed audience, in arcminutes.

What a venue sets

One line of front matter, three effects.

Type size

Body text at 1.3x, the rung for a conference room.

Label lift

Eyebrows, captions and page numbers grow a little more.

Word budgets

`lint:deck` warns when a slide is too full for the room.

One size per deck

The room sets the size, and the deck keeps it.

Every slide renders at the venue's size.

A slide too full for the room clips, and is named.

Lint, the Studio and the export all flag it.

Venue: hall

In a hall, bigger type is not enough.

Even 1.5x falls short of comfortable from the back row.

Say less on each slide: a statement or a number.

venue: laptop · huddle · conference · hall

Name the room.
The deck follows.