Anchor · Bookend · Prose

closing

Final slide. Dark canvas mirror of title.

anchor · closing

The closing mirrors the title — dark canvas, one last claim.

closing qr

Leave a scannable takeaway behind.

The payload bullet renders as a QR code sized for the back row.

Scan to open

Next steps

Where to go next.

`docs` — the component catalog and authoring contracts

`gallery` — every layout rendered in light and dark

`studio` — compose and preview a deck in the browser

Closing · spectrum

The closing echoes the same six-step spectrum.

When NOT to reach for closing.

Multi-line heading

Keep the closing line to one editorial sentence. The layout is centered and large — two-line closings get cramped and lose impact.

Header or footer overrides

Don't blank the footer with `_footer: ''` on the closing: it is the deck's standing note (a "Confidential", a copyright), and the last slide is often the one left on screen. Drop it on purpose with `no-footer`, or every band with `silent`.

Mid-deck closing

If the audience needs a strong statement mid-deck, use `big-number` or `content` with the `dark` modifier. Reserving closing for the final slide preserves its bookend role.

Related components

See also.

`title` — opens the deck — same dark-bookend chrome

`divider` — mid-deck section breaks — same dark canvas

`big-number` — single emphatic statement mid-deck without the bookend signal