NEW PLUGIN · AVATARS · INLINE CODE

A face for everyone you have not photographed yet.

`!{Ada Okafor}` draws a head-and-shoulders portrait. The name chooses every trait you leave out, so it is the same face on every render.

An avatar goes wherever inline code goes, at the size of the words.

Our sponsor  Ada clears blockers above the program, and  Marcus runs the weekly cadence with  Priya.

-  Tomas Lindqvist reviews every schema change before it ships.
-  Nia Bello owns the migration cutover and the rollback plan.
-  Jonah Reyes is your standing contact between reviews.

PROCUREMENT

The tile takes the deck's colors, sizes and shapes; the face keeps its own.

- Sizes:  — 1.1, 1.45, 2.4 and 4 times the text.
- Shapes:  circle,  rounded,  square, and  bare.
- Colors:  — the tile from `c1` – `c12`, a ring with `border=`.

`gender=` changes which defaults a name draws from; it never locks a trait.

-  — one name, three presets: the hair, beard and brows change, nothing else.
-  — a trait you write always wins over the preset.
- Skin, hair, eyes and clothes keep their colors in every theme, the way a photograph does.
