CHART FAMILY

Seven charts that plot a value.

Bar · stacked bar · line · waterfall · scatter · slope · bullet

FY26 PLAN

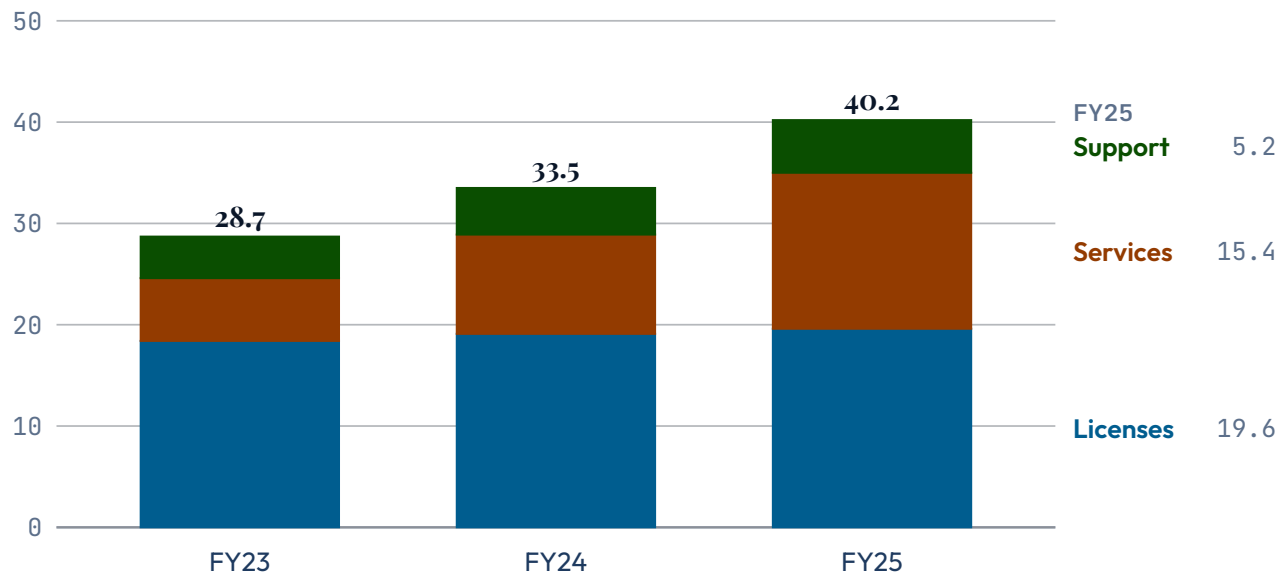

Growth is concentrated in two regions.

The value sits on the canvas above each bar, so no axis is needed to read it — and one series takes one hue, because color that encodes nothing is the amateur tell.

REVENUE MIX

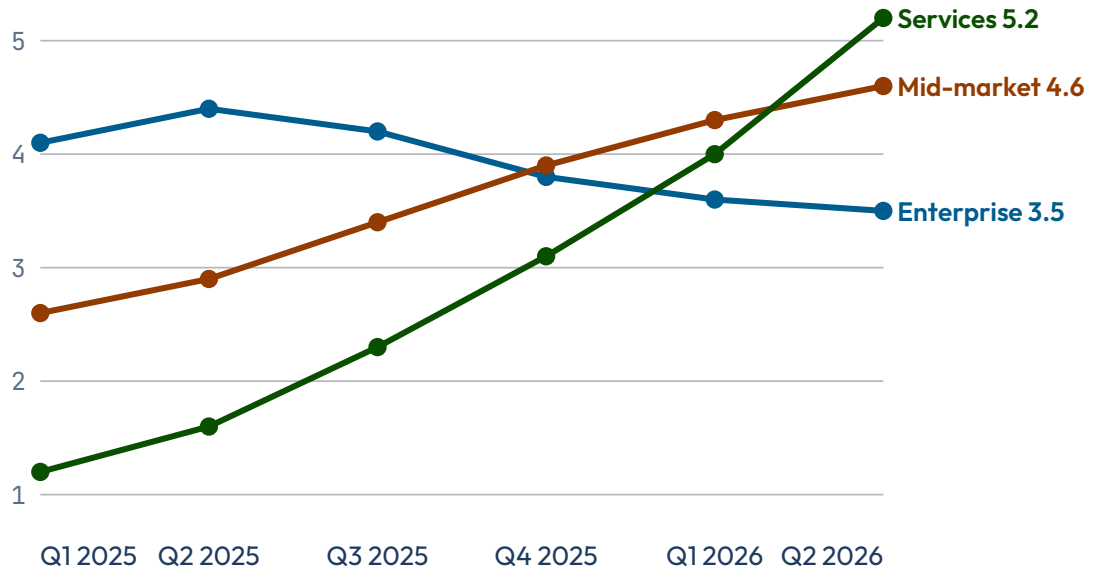

Services grew from a fifth of revenue to a third.

The last bar's parts are named and valued beside them — a key, a direct label and a table at once, so nothing has to be looked up.

BOOKINGS BY SEGMENT

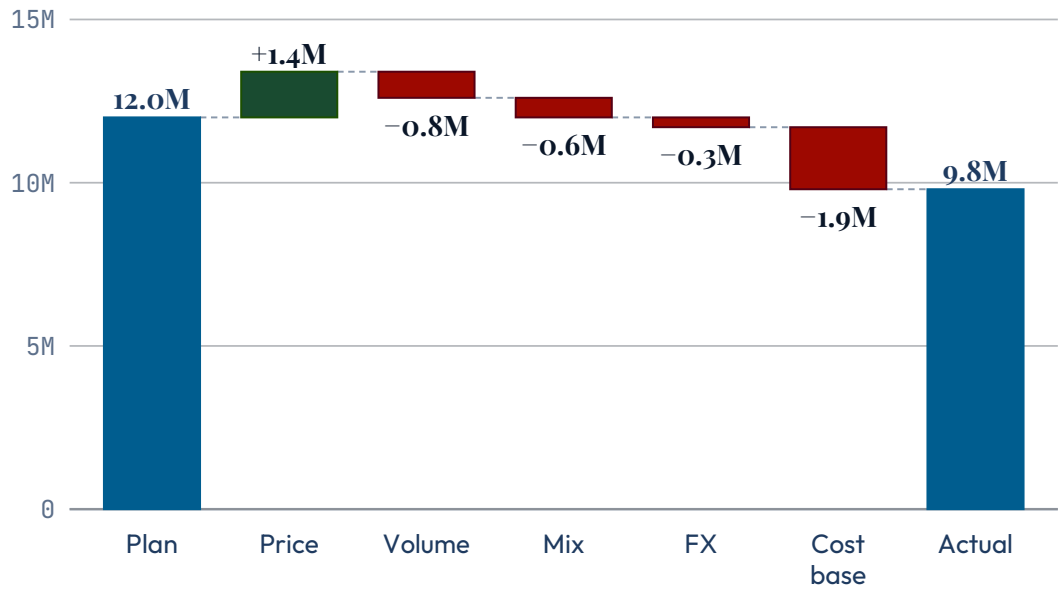

Services grew into the gap enterprise left.

Each line carries its own name and closing value at its end, in its own hue — a legend would make the reader look away and match colors.

FY26 PLAN · ACTUAL

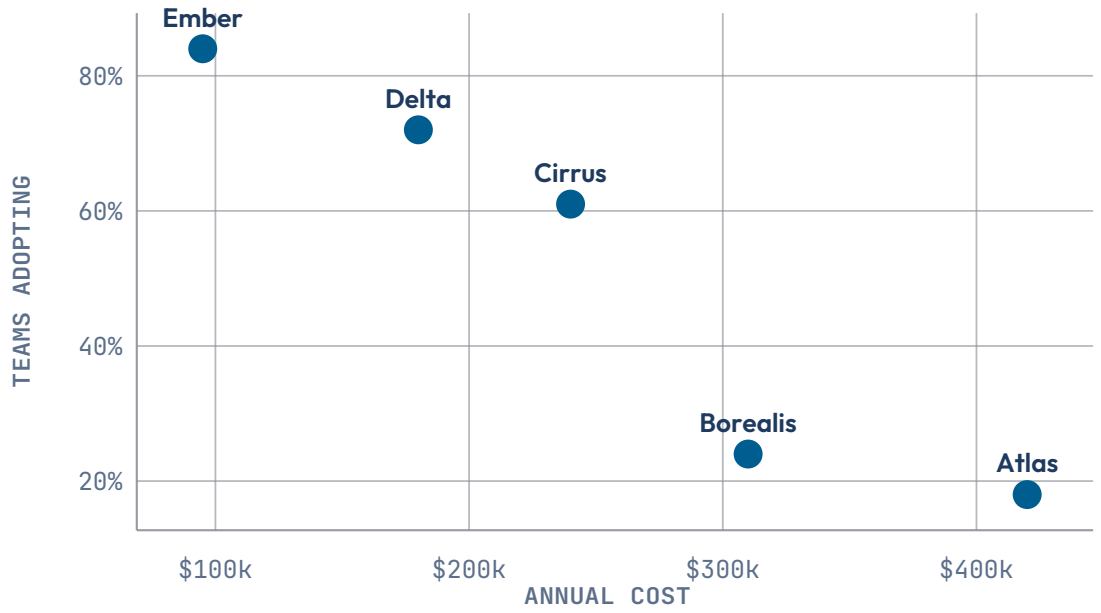

Price paid for the volume we lost.

The sign is the syntax: a signed value floats as a step, a bare one anchors to zero as a level. The connectors are what make it a bridge rather than a row of boxes.

TOOLING SPEND REVIEW

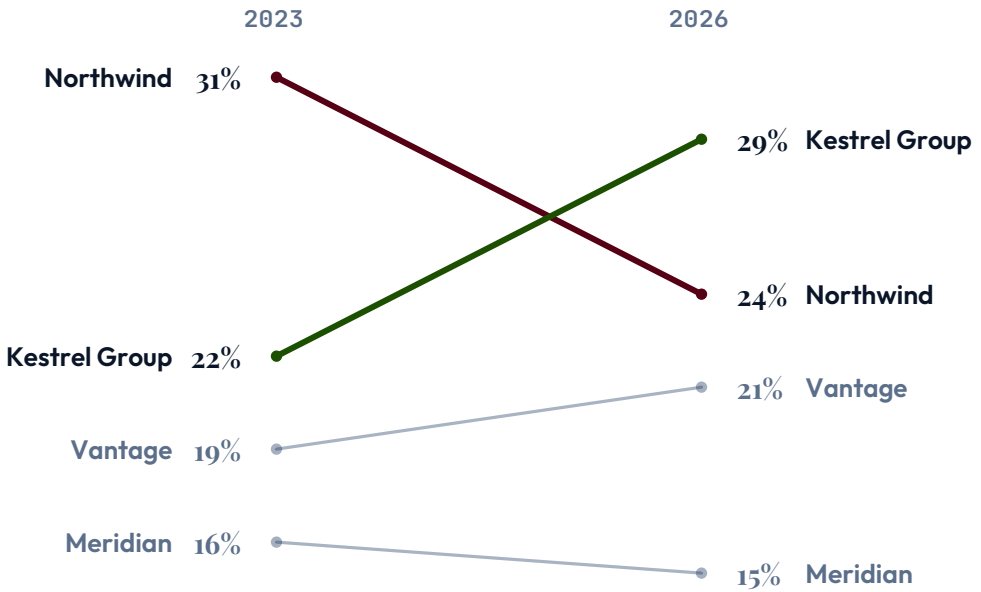

The tools we pay most for are the ones nobody adopts.

Two numeric axes carrying real units, which is what separates this from a quadrant — a quadrant scores on a unitless two-by-two.

SHARE OF CATEGORY

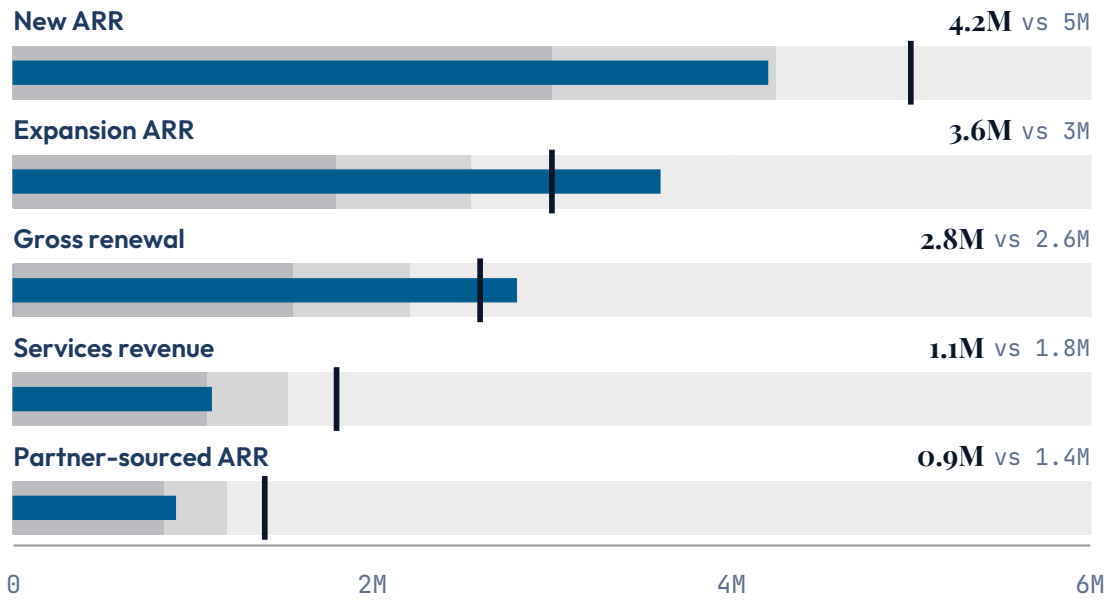

Kestrel took the lead; Northwind gave it up.

Quiet by default: emphasis is declared by the author with a status pill, so the chart never asserts that up is good news.

Q3 2026 · COMMERCIAL PLAN

Two of five KPIs cleared the plan line.

Actual against target inside a qualitative band — the dense, honest form of "are we on plan", where a gauge would spend a quarter of the slide on one number.

ONE SUBSTRATE

The furniture is shared.

One tick generator, one gutter convention, one gridline weight — so seven charts read as one deck.
